

The Seventh District—3. S. English.
HENRY COUNTY, Ky., Feb. 22, 1859
Editors Louisville Courier: I saw in your paper lately, a letter from Henry county, signed "Old Line Jackson Democrat," recommending

Col. S. S. English as a suitable candidate for the office of Governor of this district at our late Congressional election. I have written to the writer of that letter is, but I like the war of it. I like, occasionally, to see a recommendation of one of the "Old Guard" to fill a high responsible office; I like to give honor to whom honor is due—to one who has borne the burden of the day. In times past, when it was said, "Wash. is a man of the Old Guard," Col. English responded to the call of his old Democratic friends, although defeat, certain and overwhelming, was fixed fact, and known as well ere the election was afterward. And now, could we neglect such a self-sacrificing adherent of the "Old Guard" in the advent of Democracy? His name is, in fact, the synonym of indomitable firmness, and whole-souled devotion to the principles of the old Jackson Jeffersonian school.

Another recommendation of Col. English is, that he is a friend of the people of this district. Old men admire him for his steadfast adherence to the political doctrines of the "Old Guard," and young men for his gentlemanly bearing.

His appearance, he is one of the most affable of the "Old Guard" in the school of Democrats. None better acquainted with the "Old Guard" than myself by a Democratic convention, there need "no such word as fail."

 At a meeting of the Regulators of Henry County, at Port Royal, February 23rd, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted, written in red ink, and sent to the Courier for publication:
 Resolved, That whereas the Regulators have that whatever they have done is right, and to be gained, they would infer that to the sense of Henry county, that they will pay all the expenses that they consider worthy. Resolved, further, That the Porter family and allies became troublesome to the citizens of Henry county in the suspected burning of houses, and the murder of the poor, and the depredations, etc., etc., and that we, the Regulators of Henry county, have assembled together for the purpose of raising laws to rid Henry county of the malignant and driving them from the bounds of Kentucky. Resolved, That we, the Regulators, do not intend to pay our actions disappointed of by them, or to pay any other man's actions disappointed of by them, and that we are not responsible for the disapproval, and that as far as we have pledged themselves to us, we intend to stand by the resolution, and in the pledges that we have made to the people, we intend to stand by. St. Louis, March 2.

The overland mail has arrived, with sales from Francisco to noon of the 1st inst. The mail is six hours behind time—caused by detention experienced from a collision between a freight and passenger train on the Pacific Railroad, by which a passenger was killed, and a few other employees injured.

Among the passengers is Capt. Skillman, prominent small enterprise between San Antonio and El Paso. He is believed to have been on his way, including a battle with the Indians.

A band of Apaches went to San Elizario, in northern New Mexico, and stole a large number of mail. Fort Bliss is about twenty miles from where word was sent of the affair. Lieut of the Eighth Infantry, took a detachment of 100 riflemen from that post, and secured the volunteers from the Arizona mounted the volunteers to Dog Canyon, in the mountains, with fifty-two men. He followed them in and as they were being surrounded by the Apaches, his men withdrew, with loss of one sergeant and private killed, and six privates wounded. The Apaches numbered one hundred and fifty men, and had not less than twenty killed.

Lazelle was in a dying state when taken to Fort Bliss.

The volunteers were becoming troublesome along the northern line of Texas, and had murdered a boy near Gainesville. Intense excitement prevailed there when the mail party passed.

CHICAGO—PARAGUAY.—A Washington dispatch of the 25th ult., to the New York Herald, reads:

DISPATCHES were received at the State Department from General Lamor, our Minister in Nicaragua, to the effect that gish treaty nor the Cass-Yanara treaty had been ratified, and expresses no opinion when they are made. The Government here believes that Sir John A. Macdonald's action in signing the treaty before he is, as the ratification of his treaty and rejection of ours would necessarily lead to an immediate rupture. Gen. Lamont's dispatches are dated this date, and it is entirely likely the King's treaty had not been ratified. The dispatches were also received this morning at the State and Navy departments from Commodore Smith, commanding the U. S. S. Albatross, on American expedition. The dispatches are dated September, Dec. 23. They announce that every thing was going on well. The large guns had been mounted on the steamers. The boats of the Fulton, Dolphin, Perry, and Water Witch were to have left on the 30th for Corrientes. The Regatta, with the Water Witch, would be left at the mouth of the Comandante's river. The boats on the river in the Fulton. The Harriet Lane still detained at Quarantine, and on her arrival would tow the Bainbridge up the Corrientes.

other vessel of the expedition than those mentioned. A map of the river at Annona, said to be reliable, is here forwarded. It shows the river of the same name, and, in the lower part, several of them mud, mounting one hundred and one guns. The Commissioner gives his reasons for concluding that the success of the feeling was favorable to success. Commissioner Bowlin mentions in his dispatches that the military government tendered their mediation, and that he informed them he had no authority to accept.

JOSEPH BARRETT MACMURDO.—The entire number of slaves employed on the plantation of Robert Barnett, of Lincoln county, Kentucky, brought to the Probate Court yesterday, by the sheriff, who executed the deeds of their master, Mr. Barnett, who died in the year 1864, has never been married, and leaving that his present property was a sufficient independence for his remaining years, and that he was unable to support his family. He had three negroes, many of whom he said by labor assisted in the making of his present suit, which was not equal, however, perhaps, to the value of the suit he had worn for $10,000 for them on the previous day, but refused the offer with a remark that he would not take $10,000, the motive influencing him being of a true character than that of gain. — *Chm. DEATH OF MAJOR KENNAN.—Major John W. Kennan, of the 10th Cavalry, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home in Baltimore, where he had been on furlough from his post at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, near Washington City. He has taken an active part in politics, and has acted as Superintendent of the Burnet House Saloon, and as a member of the Washington Club. He was 47 years of age when he came to Washington but a few days since. — Chm. Com.

THE LASSER-CARRO OF COTTON EVER CLEARER.—The ship Oregon steamed from San Francisco for Liverpool, England, on Friday, and cleared for cargo recently by Messrs. McKee, Knox, & Co., with a cargo of 7,665 bales cotton, weighing 1,000,000 lbs., and valued at $1,000,000. The ship is the largest cotton carrier ever cleared from any port in the world. THE "SHOE-TIE."—The Commercial says that the fashionables of Cincinnati, of the "masculine reversion," have adopted the latest style of cravats—a shoe-string tied in a bow-knot, with the ends dangling on the shirt bosom.
